Dear Joseph,

Thank you for your generous donation of $2,500.00 to Wine To Water. This holiday season, your gift provides the greatest gift of all: water, which brings life and transforms communities in hard to reach places like Nepal, the Amazon and Ethiopia.

As we embrace this season of love and gratitude, we are also thankful for our own privileges, including our basic need for clean water. More than 663 million people in this world lack access to this necessity. Your support helps fight against the world's water crisis and we are so grateful for your generosity to provide life-giving water to those most in need.

Thank You and Happy Holidays,

The Wine To Water Team

600,000+ people have access to clean water thanks to our community of supporters. THANK YOU!

Dear Mr. Alioto,

Getting together to write this letter was an opportunity for us to reflect on who we are. From our beginnings in bars, restaurants and rural villages in Africa, Wine To Water's mission has always been about regular people serving in community to provide clean water to those who need it most. While we have grown, this spirit has not changed, and we are so humbled and grateful for the way you bring life to our community with your story and your connection to our WIW family.

This magazine serves as a testimony to you as part of this community and a celebration of our accomplishments. It is the story of one single project in Nepal, and it shares the beauty of the people, the strength of families and the story of how the Wine To Water community is making a huge difference through water.

We encourage you to grab a beverage of your choice, sit back by yourself or together with loved ones and read about how the village of Dahakhani is being transformed by the power of the same Wine To Water community that you are a part of. It is our hope that you will be encouraged and motivated to continue your support of the WIW mission with us now and in the year to come.

Cheers!

The WIW Team

Thank you so much for supporting clean water and being part of our community.
Please read and enjoy!

Best,
